Sister Betty and Myles Glenn, her bio-chemist husband, were in Italy in recent weeks where he was giving a paper at an international symposium. They visited Verona, a magnificent Italian Renaissance city, in North Italy.

Its history dates to Roman times, but its northern location has brought the architecture and influence of much of Europe through its gates, into its cathedrals and gardens and mansions and municipal buildings.

The mix of architecture, not unlike that of the more modest mix in Cameron, tells the city's development from Roman times, the Germanic influence, the French, the local and not inconsequential renaissance architecture of 1300 and 1400s.

As Cameron builds a contemporary jail, there remains a Victorian structure which would be a good museum. A number of organizations in Cameron and around Milam County could contribute important materials to such a project.

Since Milam County was seat of what was first Milam Land District, from which about 50 Texas counties were carved, its behooves Cameron and Milam County to put together a museum story of that kind of history, which for Texas is quite old. It started here in 1836, about 10 years before Cameron was laid out.

We have examples of Greek, Roman, Colonial, Victorian, Western, contemporary, commercial and modern throughout the expanding downtown area. With new streets, grassed walkways, fountain, low-level perennial trees, wider sidewalks, Cameron too can show a bit of historic classic that is Verona, almost 2,000 years old in Northern Italy, Cameron about 130 years old in Central Texas.

Both were gateways to new development: Cameron to West Texas, Verona to Southern Italy.

BEEF ON THE HOOF - Pens at the Cameron Livestock Auction Monday but the supply of cattle at the auction totaled only 670. Auction still had lots of room Thursday, to the surprise of auction officials. The price control on beef was lifted

Meat Prices In 30s Make Moderns Weep

Round steak at 19 cents a pound, chuck roast at 12 cents, sirloin steak and prime rib roast at 15 cents -- sounds fantastic, doesn't it? But these are actual prices in grocery store ads in a copy of The Houston Chronicle from the 1930s.

The paper was found by a resident of Friendship, who turned it over to Herald correspondent Mrs. Leroy Guilote.

The ads were apparently published in December, for Christmas bargains were offered, including bananas for 12 cents a dozen, apples 15 cents a dozen and Colorado potatoes at 10 pounds for 19 cents.

In these days of soaring grocery prices, the ads look like someone's dream of better days, but the '30s were not noted for high incomes among average people, so the prices may have been high to them.

But imagine being able to buy ground beef for 9 cents a pound, onions at three pounds for 10 cents, new potatoes at 5 pounds for 12 cents and five pounds of pe-cans in a mesh bag for 59 cents.

Sugar cured bacon was 25 cents a pound, which was much higher than beef, and pork chops were high at 25 cents per pound. But you could buy five pounds of yam to go with the pork chops for 10 cents, and two pounds of cabbage for 5 cents.

If your taste ran to macaroni you could buy a package for 4 cents and tomato sauce at 4 cents for 18 cents. Eggs were high too, with number one selling for 29 cents a dozen. However well-ners were only 17 cents a pound and bologna was 15 cents.

If you favored sea food, shrimp were available at 12 cents per pound and Gulf trout at 18 cents, while oysters sold at 49 cents a quart.

Cattle Run Lower Than Expected

The heavy run of cattle expected Thursday at the local livestock auction in the wake of the lifting of the beef price freeze never materialized to the surprise of auction officials.

A "normal" run of some 670 cattle and calves was seen, up from last week's extreme low of 125, and down from last year's 860.

Apparently local cattlemen have not been holding back on cattle, or are waiting to see what prices will do following lifting of controls.

According to the auction report, feeder steers were mostly $1 higher at $78 to $83 for choice and $77 to $82 for good. Steer calves were steady and feeder heifers and heifer calves were $1 to $2 higher. Choice feeder heifers brought $60 to $65.

Slaughter bulls and cows were reported steady as were stock cows and pairs. Standard and good stock cows brought $31 to $37.50 while good cow and calf pairs were $400 to $510.

On the hog market, prices for barrows and gilts were fully $6 higher and sows were $3 to $4 higher. U. S. 1-2 barrows and gilts brought $47.80 to $48.25 and U. S. 1-2 sows brought $40 to $43.25.

FOOD STAMPS WILL REPLACE COMMODITIES

The new statewide food stamp program will start operation November 1, 1973, in Milam County.

This was announced today by Edwin J. Tyroch, State Department of Public Welfare at Temple.

"The statewide food stamp program will replace the commodity foods program currently operating in this county," explains Tyroch. "The statewide program was made possible when the 1972 Texas Legislature appropriated $7.7 million for a state-administered, state-financed statewide food stamp program."

The State Department of Public Welfare will administer the new program and the United States Department of Agriculture will provide the food stamps and bonus stamps.

Eligible households pay a set amount for food stamps and are then given bonus stamps based on size of household and their total net income. Bonus stamps make up the difference between what a household can pay for food and what is necessary for a nutritious diet.

Also, bonus stamps mean many dollars worth of new business for the community. Bonus stamps represent money that low-income households would not otherwise have to spend at local grocery stores.

A recent study of three rural food stamp communities showed that food stamps represented from five to ten percent of the total retail food sales.

Household are certified eligible for food stamps at the food stamp office at 603 West 6th or the local welfare office. Certified households will then receive Authorization to Purchase (ATP) cards in the mail which will tell them how many stamps they are eligible for and how much money, if any, they must pay for them.

The ATP card and the necessary cash are redeemable for food stamp at local post offices. Participating post offices will be announced at a later date.

Participating grocers accept food stamps for the purchase of most food and food products. Food stamps cannot be used to buy alcoholic beverages, tobacco and most imported items.

Participation in the food stamp program is voluntary and does not prevent the household from receiving any other benefits for which the members might be eligible.

Certification for eligibility is now in progress. For further information about the food stamp program, contact the food stamp office at 603 West 6th or the local welfare office.

The commodity office will be closing as of October 11, according to Lloyd Lamere, office director. No food will be issued after October 10.

Area Roundup

Smackover Test Drilling

ROCKDALE

A 16,000-foot Smackover keep oil test seven miles east of Lexington is reportedly casing the hole down to about 6,000 feet last week. The deep test is known as the No. 1 S. P. Peebles and is located on a 50-acre tract owned by Mrs. Thomas Underwood of Rockdale. The well was spudded in August 28. It is being drilled for Amoco Production Co. by Locklin Brothers, drilling contractors.

Addition To Draw 10,000 Residents

GEORGETOWN

Representatives of the Capitol Area Planning Council started the commissioners court with news of a new subdivision expected to draw an additional 10,000 residents into Williamson County over the next ten years. The addition will be called Anderson Mill and will be developed at a cost of $85 million. It will be a privately owned community with schools, churches, and shopping areas and houses. The location will be five miles south of Cedar Park to the west of US 183 and south of FM 260.

Family Planning Program Set

CALDWELL

In the very near future, birth control will be available, free, to low-income people in Burleson County. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare has recently granted $75,000 to the Brazos Valley Community Action Program to expand into a total of seven counties. The Family Planning Program has a mobile van to transport clinic equipment, staff and patients to different locations in the Brazos Valley area.

Predator Hearings Planned

LAMPASAS

Lampasas will be one of two locations in the state where a committee from the Texas House of Representatives will hold public hearings on the growing problem of predatory animals. The hearing will be held in Lampasas Wednesday, October 10 at 10 a.m., and in Fort Stockton on Friday, September 28. The predatory animal problem is nearing the emergency stage in the livestock industry, according to agricultural groups.

Man Killed Near Milano

Milam County's first traffic fatality of the year was recorded Thursday when a Houston man was killed in a near head-on collision two miles south of Milano.

According to investigating DPS Patrolman Leroy Broadus, Robert John Martin of Houston was traveling north on Highway 36 when his car was in collision with a tractor-trailer truck driven by Harvey Van Scroggins of Hutto.

The accident occurred about 8:30 a.m. Thursday.

Martin was pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace Jim Swanzy of Milano. Scroggins was not injured. Martin's body was taken to Phillips and Luckey Funeral Home at Rockdale to await transfer to Houston.

ASAP Survey To Cover County

BELTON

Dates for the annual household surveys conducted by the Central Texas Alcohol Safety Action Project have been set for September 16 through 22.

The household survey concentrates on acquiring a comprehensive measure of public attitudes toward, and knowledge of, the drinker driver problem. Demographic data is gathered through the use of questionnaires.

This type survey is a part of the overall research and evaluation done by the CTASAP, which also includes drivers surveys. Volunteer driver surveys have already been done in several areas of the CTCOG seven county region, and more are planned.

Obituary Maybes....

There's a message somewhere in the obituary of a popularly elected Marxist president.

Maybe it says nationalizing American investment in Chile is all right, the act of deceased Chilean Salvador Allende, 65.

Maybe it says nationalizing Chilean industry amidst a 300 percent annual inflation rate is all wrong.

Maybe these are reasons Allende is dead, a suicide by military junta reports, a gunshot victim of the junta by Allende aide reports.

One junta official said Allende ended it with a shot from an automatic weapon Cuba's Fidel Castro gave him, Castro himself a dictator-leader by revolution.

Of all the countries Chile under the new regime is keeping diplomatic ties with, guess which it is not. Cuba, of course.

The junta led army and air force chiefs of staff buried Allende, two weeks after he had appointed them to their posts.

Maybe that ought to be understood in Allende's obituary. Maybe constitutional Marxism works no better than the revolutionary kind.

Maybe it goes against human nature.

Interfacing ...

Everything must be systemized if things in numbers are going to work.

But there are times when one system is not enough and what is called "interfacing" in type composition is applied among the systems of peoples.

We have among us in Texas numerous systems running parallel to one another and at times in conflict with another. Interfacing weaves a line across the parallel lines to bring them into association, into a knit without changing their directions.

This has been going on in Cameron for years. If we have a viable, unique system of doing things, it is because we have gone "outside the system" by interfacing the various ones "within the system."

It is safe to assume a newer, larger system will emerge in this historic melding of youth, history and imagination.

Cambodian Relics Are Victims Of Long War

PHNOM PENH
Reuter -- Cambodian authorities have launched a campaign to protect the country's relics from the ravages of war and smuggling.

Museum officials say there is growing concern among historians and officials that hundreds of priceless relics of the Khmer civilization have already been stolen or destroyed in the three-year-old war.

Officials have already moved statues, manuscripts and other antiquities from provincial cities to the safety of Phnom Penh.

They estimate that more than 2,000 pieces are now stored in Phnom Penh awaiting the end of the war before they are again put on public display.

Officials say privately that the recent American bombing of Cambodia undoubtedly has ruined prime sites for archaeological digs especially along the banks of the Mekong River.

They feel the bombing was necessary but say it was regrettable from an academic point of view.

Despite the war, archaeological searches are still in progress in Cambodia and this year several temples going back to the ninth century have been uncovered.

In one of the latest finds in July, 100 bronze and stone statues were uncovered 20 miles north of Phnom Penh, which led to amateur digs by civilians hoping to sell their finds to foreign residents.

This practice also has worried museum officials who fear they may lose pieces which could throw light on the start of the Khmer civilization.

However, the main problem at the moment is international smuggling of relics.

Museum inspectors who recently visited Bangkok and Hong Kong say they saw dozens of Cambodian Buddha statues in market places which undoubtedly had been stolen from temples.

The main pillaging is done along the Thai and Cambodian border. Several arrests have been made of Cambodians stealing statues and selling them to international dealers at the border.

In an effort to foil these attempts, the museum officials have taken to copying important statues and replacing them with cement imitations.

This practice has already been successful in saving one of Cambodia's most famous statues known as the Leper

King in Angkor Thom Temple, north of the fabled city of Angkor.

Earlier this year an attempt was made to saw off the head of the stone statue of the Leper King, causing officials to secretly replace the statue with one made of cement.

Officials said that last week thieves again returned and carried off the imitation head of the Leper King.

The museum officials believe that their biggest task after the war ends will be restoring temples and statues chipped and damaged by the war.

They expect a flood of antiques to be unearthed, if and when peace comes to Cambodia, by temple guardians who have buried their relics to save them.

Political Action Deadline Faces Northern Ireland

By Alan Harvey

BELFAST

Reuter -- A six-month deadline for political action faces Northern Ireland after two days of tough talk from British Prime Minister Edward Heath.

Political leaders now know they must come to terms with their differences - or face a renewal of direct rule by Britain in March, 1974.

Whether this timetable will persuade politicians to discard rivalries in eight centuries of turbulent history is doubtful. Party disagreements go deep, and many observers see little chance of compromise.

A more hopeful view is taken by Gerry Fitt, leader of the mainly Catholic Social Democratic and Labor Party (SDLP) which holds a pivotal position in the new Northern Ireland assembly elected last June.

"It's a whole new ball game now," said Fitt in an interview.

His glimmer of hope, emerging as Northern Ireland's grim daily toll of sectarian from his conviction that an era in effect is ending.

As he sees it, the Protestant Unionist Party which has dominated Northern Ireland politics since the state was formed in 1921 is no longer an all-powerful monolith.

It has broken up into splinter groups, therefore, he argues, it must accept the inevitability of sharing power with the Catholics.

The splitting process has left the official unionists, led by former Prime Minister Brian Faulkner, with 22 seats in the new assembly. This compares with 19 for Fitt's Social Democrats, eight for the moderate Alliance Party, (which includes both Catholics and Protestants) and one for the Northern Ireland Labor Party.

Hardline groups such as those led by militant Protestant leaders William Craig and Ian Paisley, are refusing to participate in the new assembly on a power-sharing basis.

But the four that will do so -- Faulkner's Unionists, Fitt's Social Democrats, the Alliance group and the Labor Party -- hold 50 of the 78 assembly seats, a workable combination.

In two days of talks here on August 28-29, both Faulkner and Fitt assured Heath that they were willing to get together for talks on speeding up the work of the assembly, which so far has met only once without making much headway.

The two leaders are expected to have talks soon with William Whitelaw, secretary of State for Northern Ireland, as a followup to Heath's visit to Belfast. Some observers predict the assembly may start effective work in October.

Difficulties abound. Fitt and Faulkner know that in seeking a middle way they risk upsetting party followers and being outflanked by more extreme leaders.

But they are also sensitive to Heath's argument -- strongly expressed during his visit -- that the patience of the British people is wearing thin as far as "the Irish troubles" are concerned.

They would be reluctant to see a pullout of British troops. They also know that Northern Ireland is highly dependent on the $625 million it receives annually from the British treasury for welfare services, subsidies and other aid.

One of the biggest issues is Northern Ireland's policing and security system. Protestants oppose any move to alter the status or makeup of the Royal Ulster Constabulary, which has constituted the state's basic police force since founding days.

Workers Warn Of Cannibal Indians

By Uli Schmetzer

RIO DE JANEIRO

Reuter -- Brazil's National Indian Foundation (FUNAI) has sent a warning to roadworkers pushing a highway through the jungle: "Beware of cannibals."

The warning was prompted by a report from friendly Indians that a tribe known as the Nereyo-Reneyana rit their enemies after killing them in battle. They claim the nomads, living in unexplored northern jungle, ate the sexual parts of fallen foes, believing they could thus absorb the dead warriors courage and sexual prowess.

But there is at least a suspicion among foundation officials that the report may be exaggerated - part of an old Indian trick to get the white man to fight their traditional enemies, and also explain their battle defeats.

It would not be the first time.

AFUNAI official recalled that another tribe - the Krenakore - had been described as supernaturally powerful giants. They turned out to be much smaller than described - but had inflicted a series of defeats on other Indians.

FUNAI took the precaution of warning roadworkers who are beginning to enter the unexplored jungle to work on the northern perimeter highway along Brazil's northern frontier.

But as an official pointed out, "It is quite possible that the Tiryo (the Indians responsible for the cannibalism report) have lost many battles against the Nereyo-Reneyana and now accuse them of eating dead warriors."

"We had the same trouble when Indian races near the Koro tribe claimed the Indians were giants and endowed with supernatural physical strength. In the end the smaller than we expected but we discovered they had repeatedly defeated their neighbors in tribal wars."

The Tiryo people, who live along Brazil's borders with Surinam and Guyana, claim the cannibals - also known as "vampire men" - are nomads roaming the regions north of the Amazon River.

There have been reports of the "vampire men" before, but interest began to mount in August after work began on the planned 1,600 mile ring-road.

The Tiryo said many of their warriors had been cannibalized after being killed when they ran into the nomads during hunting expeditions.

They warned FUNAI officials to keep roadworkers away from the tributaries of the river Trombetas near the Tumucumaque National Park on the border of Amapa and Para states, since this was the area mainly inhabited by the nomad man-eaters.

Whatever the "vampire men's" habits turn out to be, anthropologists and Indian experts were excited by news of the tribe, which has never been seen by white men, and believe the jungle and brush through which the new road will be carved may harbour many surprises and unknown Indian groups.

The road will cross one of the world's last unexplored areas along this vast country's northern frontier.

Home Preserved Foods Cut Cost, Say 4-H'ers

For many families, canning and freezing fresh fruits, vegetables and meats helps make their food budgets last longer. And they're finding that home preserved foods retain their freshness and nutritive value long after they're first stored.

Boys and girls enrolled in the national 4-H food preservation program are helping to spread the good word about home preserved foods. Sponsored for 45 years by Kerr Glass Manufacturing Corporation, young people in the program learn about safe and efficient methods of canning and freezing their favorite foods. 4-H'ers have found that home preserved foods supplement the amount of fruits, vegetables and meats in their daily diets. And the youths use the home preserved foods they've made as gifts and as meal ideas when unexpected guests drop in.

Preparing creative meals with preserved foods, and developing jams, jellies and relishes are also stressed in the program.

Encouraging 4-H'ers in the food preservation program with incentives and recognition is Kerr Glass Manufacturing Corporation. They provide up to four medals of honor to county winners and an expense-paid trip to National 4-H Congress in Chicago, Nov. 25-29, for a winner from each state.

Six national winners are announced during 4-H Congress, and each receives a $700 scholarship from Kerr.

One 4-H'er in the program, found her family's food bill cut in half after she began to can and freeze food. Janet Harrington, of Tremont, Ill., prepared hundreds of dishes, using home preserved foods, which saved her family many trips to the store. A $700 scholarship winner last year in the program, Miss Harrington believes that food preserved "just harvested, at its peak of ripeness, will always taste best."

Another 1972 4-H food preservation national winner was well prepared to help when two disasters struck her community. Karen Wedgeworth, of Laurel, Miss., served her home preserved foods to persons left homeless by the ravages of hurricane Camille and a railroad tank car explosion. Also, through her efforts, food preservation exhibits have been retained at the South Mississippi Fair.

"I know people still preserve food", says Miss Wedgeworth, "and I believe that the preservation of food is important to good health and happiness."

One of the oldest supporters of the 4-H program, Kerr provides additional support to the food preservation program through publications on canning and freezing food processing, and technical and public relations assistance.

For more information on the 4-H food preservation program contact the county extension office.

William J. McCaffrey, project director, and Jack C. Knox, evaluation coordinator, of the Central Texas Alcohol Safety Action Project, are attending an ASAP Evaluation Seminar in Bethesda, Maryland this week.

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

An individual with chronic kidney disease has two means of available for maintaining his life. He may undergo hemodialysis, that is, have his blood purified by means of a dialysis machine, or he can undergo a kidney transplantation.

A patient who requires the use of a dialysis machine in the hospital can expect to pay approximately $12,000 each year. A home dialysis unit would cost about $6,000 a year. A kidney transplant operation can cost a family literally thousands of dollars. Few people can withstand such staggering financial burdens.

Recognizing that chronic kidney disease patients face financial crises for lack of personal financial resources to pay for the expensive equipment and care necessary for their survival, the 63rd Legislature passed SB 386 (VCS 4477-20), the Texas Kidney Health Care Act. As a result of that act, the Division of Kidney Health Care has been created within the Texas State Department of Health to provide the care and treatment of chronic kidney disease.

The program provided by the act is designed to bring to bear all possible resources of the state and to coordinate the efforts of the State in the matter of renal disease.

Most important, however, is that the act provides for treatment services to chronic kidney disease patients for a fraction of the cost such patients would normally have to pay. The Texas Kidney Health Care Act has given a new lease on life to some 500 Texans afflicted by chronic kidney disease each year.

This major health program is only one of the health related bills approved by the 63rd Legislature.

Another Health Department Division engendered by a legislative measure is that of Coordinated Emergency Medical Services. This division is responsible for developing a state plan for the efficient delivery of emergency medical services to high risk infants during the neonatal period, and to persons who are injured or suffering from acute illness. Toward this end, the state will be divided into emergency medical service delivery areas, with at least one hospital in each area designated as a "trauma center."

When graphite was discovered in England in the 16th century, it was considered so valuable that soldiers guarded it night and day.

Garden Club Speaker Endorses Pesticides

"It isn't pesticide use that has caused problems, it is pesticide misuse," Dr. Charles L. Cole, area entomologist for the Agriculture Extension Service, told members of the Fluer de lis Garden Club at their opening meeting Tuesday.

The club met at the home of Mrs. Durwood Cobb for a program on Insect Identification and Control.

Dr. Cole said pollution problems from pesticides were principally in urban areas where unused pesticide is discarded in sewer lines and carried into streams and rivers. "People must become educated to the problems of handling unused pesticides," Dr. Cole said. "The first rule should be never mix more pesticide than you are going to use that day."

He said one pesticide firm would soon be marketing a small packet of garden pesticide designed for use by the average home gardener.

He said the use of "good" insects to control less desirable insects worked better in theory than in practice. "It works if your timing for releasing the "good" insects is right," Dr. Cole said, but he cautioned that it has not been as effective as control with proper use of insecticides.

During the business meeting Mrs. Monroe Fuchs reported on plans for the December flower show "Christmas, Christmas Everywhere" to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Humble. Mrs. Dana Kestenbaum is chairman for the show.

Pie, coffee and punch were served in the dining room with co-hostesses Christine Laws, Mrs. Griffin Barrett and Mrs. Cobb assisting at the refreshment table.

Members and guests also toured the garden room and patio area of the Cobb home following the program.

"Due to circumstances beyond our control..."

Texas Power & Light Company has a long, solid history of providing its customers with reliable electric power at the lowest price consistent with good service. The Company wants electricity to always be one of the biggest bargains in your budget.

However, there are circumstances beyond our control which indicate future electric rate increases are inevitable.

Higher Cost of Fuels The diminishing supply of natural gas and fuel oil has pushed the prices of these generating plant fuels to new highs and is significantly increasing the cost of producing electricity. TP&L's fuel bill was over $40 million last year, 30% higher than in 1971, and it's expected to be even higher in 1973.

Higher Cost of Construction Because of today's energy crisis, new generating plants must be built to operate with other fuels, such as lignite and nuclear materials. These plants are much more costly to build than gas-fueled ones, but to assure you an ample supply of electric power in the future, construction of new facilities is essential - and must be done even though TP&L faces additional rising costs for labor, materials and land.

Higher Cost of Financing The rising cost of money needed to finance new plants and other facilities has been increasing at a staggering rate.

All of these circumstances are beyond our control - and they make producing your electricity much costlier than ever before. However, TP&L will continue to use every practical method and every possible efficiency to keep the price of electricity low and still provide you with dependable electric service in the years ahead.

Yoemen Defeat R-dale JV's Eke Tigers For Bell By Jr. Yoe, 18-16

By Glenn Cummings

A combination of strong defense and a sound running offense led the Cameron Yoemen to a 14-0 victory over the Rockdale Tigers Friday night at Yoe Field. Not only did the victory move the Yoe season record to 2-0, but it also captured the traditional "Victory Bell," bringing the game series for the bell at 11 wins for Cameron and 8 for Rockdale.

Once again Cameron launched a sound running attack led by backs George Whiteside, Willie Bell, and Jafus White, but on the other hand, the Yoe defense led by Paul Vaculin, Ronnie Bennett, Bruce Zarosky and Mike Mueck, could do little wrong, as they came through on all tight situations.

The Yoemen took possession of the ball on the 20 yard line after the opening kickoff went into the end zone. Two plays later Whiteside fumbled the ball and Rockdale's Lawrence Blinka recovered the ball on the Yoe 25. However, the Tiger offense unable to move successfully against a tough Yoe defense, turned the ball over to the Yoemen on the 5 yard line. The remainder of the quarter, neither team was able to gain a scoring threat.

However, the first Yoemen scoring threat came early in the second quarter when Gary Hornung blocked a Rockdale punt and returned it to the Rockdale 15 yard line.

The Yoemen were unable to score on this drive, but the stage was set for the first Yoe touchdown when Gene Kopriwa's punt went out of bounds on the Tiger 6. Rockdale had to punt the ball away a few plays later from inside their own 10 yard line.

After a 23 yard punt return by George Whiteside, the Yoemen went to work on the Rockdale 17. Three plays later Cameron lit up the scoreboard, as Jafus White carried the ball over to give the Yoemen a 6-0 lead.

Cameron's second scoring

The Rockdale junior varsity squeezed by the Cameron junior varsity 18-16, last Thursday night at Tiger stadium.

Both teams showed strength on both offense and defense and the game was close from the beginning.

Rockdale scored first on a one yard run from scrimmage and Cameron scored next on a 14 yard field goal by Allen Jones. With 6:03 left in the first half, Rockdale led 6-3. Rockdale managed to score again during the first half, following a long kickoff return down to the Cameron 9 yard line. The score was 12-3 in favor of Rockdale at half-time.

Cameron scored first during the second half on a 70 yard Kenneth Jones to Dennis Hollas passing combination. Allen Jones extra point was blocked and Rockdale's lead decreased to 12-9.

However, the Tigers increased their lead to 18-9 late in the fourth quarter, when they scored from the one yard line.

Cameron recovered a Rockdale fumble on the 50 yard line with 1:50 left to play in the game and drove down to the 18 before Randy Sapp passed to Michael White for a touchdown. Allen Jones kicked the extra point and with 1:02 left in the game Rockdale led 18-16.

Despite desperate efforts by the Yoe J.V., they were unable to score again and the final score was Rockdale 18 Cameron 16.

R-dale Frosh Rip Yoemen 9th By 32-7

The Cameron freshmen were defeated by the Rockdale freshmen 32-7 Thursday night at Tiger field. It was the first game of the season for Cameron.

Rockdale drove 61 yards for their first touchdown early in the first quarter and scored again in the second on a 14 yard run around left end by Gary White. White's 70 yard punt return White's touchdown was set up by a 70 yard punt return by Ray Brown. With 2:01 left in the first half Rockdale halfback Randy Morgan carried the ball over from the 9, bringing the score to 20-0 in favor of Rockdale.

However, the Cameron fans were brought to life when Gregg Kelley returned Rockdale's kickoff 70 yards for a touchdown. Aaron Miller kicked the extra point and the score moved to 20-7 in favor of Rockdale.

Rockdale scored two more times during the third quarter. First, on a 4 yard run by Robert Luetge and next on Richard Leggett's 8 yard run.

There was no scoring in the fourth quarter and the game ended with Rockdale on top, 32-7.

Interceptions Badgers Loss Gustin, 48-24

Buckholts, after scoring an impressive win over Milano last week, was defeated by Gustin 48-24 this Friday night in Gustin. Although the statistics were close, Buckholts was haunted all night by pass interceptions.

Scoring for Buckholts were Early Webb on a 42 yard run, Larry Orsag on a 20 yard pass from Carl Tomasek, and Early Webb again on a 32 yard run. Juan Escobar led the scoring for Gustin with 4 touchdowns runs consisting of 48, 40, 23 and 41 yards. Also scoring for Gustin were Scotty Hayes on a 28 yard run, Gene Luker on a 26 yard pass from James Luker and James Luker on a 30 yard run.

The final score was Gustin 48, Buckholts 24.

Next week Buckholts will play Milford in Buckholts. Gametime is 8 p.m.

Teal Season Opens

A prelude to fall waterfowl hunting is fast upon us in the form of the early teal season, September 15-23.

The nine-day season is open on blue-winged, cinnamon and green-winged teal with a liberal bag limit of four birds in the aggregate and possession limit of eight in the aggregate.

According to waterfowl biologists Bob West of Canyon and C. D. Stutzenbaker of Port Arthur, the majority of bags will be of blue-winged teal.

PLANNING YOUR FINANCES FOR THE FUTURE

Helpful Tips And Warnings

AVOID THESE COMMON PLANNING BLUNDERS

Many men and women who wouldn't dream of burning a ten-dollar bill commit money blunders which are amazingly more expensive.

Certain costly errors are especially prevalent, according to financial experts. Unless you really do have money to burn, better watch out for these mistakes.

1. Not knowing how much credit costs. To pay the lowest possible charges, shop around carefully before you sign on the dotted line. Insist on knowing the total-not just the monthly amount you'll pay for the item before you're thru. Be very wary of characters who try to talk you out of paying up quickly and urge you to take the full 36 months to pay. The less you pay each month, the more you'll pay in the end. Be equally careful when you are shopping for a loan. Remember that a tiny-sounding 1 1/2 percent per month adds up to 18 percent over a year's time.

2. Failure to budget the "buggy." A major expense that trips up many families is the family car. Many people fail to realize that they should "depreciate" their cars the way businesses depreciate equipment. In that way, they can budget for a car replacement fund. If your new car cost say $2,400, and you figure to get $800 on the trade-in in four years, that means you will need $1,600. You should save $400 a year, or almost $35 a month. Put this in a special account-don't lump it with family savings.

3. Failure to draw up a will. If you fail to make a will while alive, you may be sure that it will be done anyway by the courts. But the distribution will rarely be the one you would have chosen yourself. The law makes no allowances for the ages, states of health or financial situations of your heirs. Write today for your copy of The Personal Record Booklet, as well as the informative brochure How To Make Your Will. These are free of charge and may be obtained by writing to the United Presbyterian Foundation, 475 Riverside Drive, New York, N.Y. 10027.

4. Being an impulse shopper. Nothing wrecks a budget faster than impulse buying. In the supermarket, they add up... and up. They can choke your closets with ill-chosen "bargains," turn a charge account into Frankenstein's monster. Heed these hints and you'll really cash in on your financial planning.

SOUND ADVICE

Summer Hearing Conservation

Enjoyment of water sports—the favorite summer pastime for millions of Americans—requires respect for common sense safety regulations. And these regulations should include measures to protect participants against hazards to their hearing ability.

This is the advice of the Beltone Crusade for Hearing Conservation. The crusade, sponsored by Chicago-based Beltone Electronics Corporation, world leader in hearing aids and electronic hearing test instruments, is dedicated to promoting hearing conservation and the control of noise pollution.

For example, outboard boat enthusiasts who power their crafts with unusually loud motors could be subjecting themselves to potentially hazardous sound levels if exposure to the noise is prolonged or continuous. To avoid such a potential risk the crusade officials urge outboard enthusiasts to use protective ear plugs.

Swimmers and water skiers should remember that ear infections such as "swimmer's ear" and similar maladies deserve the attention of a medical doctor, and not taken lightly or treated with self-prescribed medication.

Also, parents should be particularly alert for their youngsters developing symptoms of ear infections, ear aches or severe head colds. Unless properly treated, these maladies can lead to tragic and sometimes permanent hearing losses.

The legislature is empowered to limit by general or special law the total principal amount of general obligations which may be issued, but unless and until the legislature acts to do so, the limitations established by statute with respect to the total principal amount of bonds which may be issued by independent school districts shall apply as the rate limitation on cities, towns, and villages.
